

December 13, 2006

can you haiku?

Got two minutes?

Craft a haiku (a Japanese poem in three lines with less than 17 syllables) in honour of Vancouver's Cherry Blossom trees and it could get its own monument unveiled at the 2007 Cherry Blossom Festival.

Last years winner of the Haiku Invitational was:

The long road
Boughs of white blossoms
Light the way

Now get writing, and when you win, please let us know.

See, that's a haiku.

Enter the 2007 Haiku Invitational (until January 11) at www.vcbf.ca

Need another dose? vitaminv.ca
Not yet a subscriber? Sign-up here

It's the only addiction you won't have to justify.

Got a friend who you think would like this daily dose? Forward this message, and spread the vitamin v goodness - for goodness sake.